The wine press is heating up on the quality of the 2015 vintage in the Rhone region of France, both north and south. Here's a typical quote:

"Not only are there some strikingly great wines in 2015, . . . but there is consistency across the board. If you made bad 2015s its time to hang up your shears! What's so special? The season was late, after a wet winter and spring, but from June to mid-August there was not a drop of water. Some rain around the 15th August and in early September meant that vines did not suffer and ripening continued seamlessly. An Indian summer allowed growers to harvest at will . . ."

Join us as we taste through a variety of wines from the southern Rhone region. There will be a flight of whites, and two flights of reds—one featuring wines from some of the lesser-know villages and the other featuring wines from Lirac and Gigondas. As many of these wines and others from the vintage are currently available, this is your chance to see what you think of the vintage and then go out and buy some. Some tasty pasta dishes will accompany the wines.

Hope to see you there!

There will only be 24 spots available for reservation so please send in your reservations early.
